A. BACKGROUND

Lecturers are, by definition, educators at higher education institutions. Article 1 of Law No. 14 of 2005 states that lecturers are professional educators and scholars whose primary duties are to transform, develop and disseminate knowledge, technology and the arts through education, research and community service. According to Law No. 14 of 2005, lecturers have three main duties, namely duties in the fields of 1) education, 2) research, and 3) community service. These three areas of duty are inseparable from the role inherent to lecturers, namely as professional educators and scholars in accordance with their academic discipline or expertise.

Lecturers' duties in the field of education relate to the delivery of teaching and learning, as well as the guidance and practical training of their students. In relation to students, lecturers' duties in the delivery of education may include:

- a. Carrying out teaching duties using lesson plans, preparing lectures, attending classes as scheduled, clearly setting out course requirements, and assessing objectively.
- b. Recognising that students are individuals who must be respected and have rights that must be protected.
- c. Setting an example for students in terms of academic ability, intellectual capacity, personal integrity, and professional ethics.

A student's academic performance at a higher education institution can be described by the Grade Point Average (GPA), which is the average credit score representing the final mark that reflects the quality of the teaching and learning process each semester; in short, it can be defined as a figure indicating a student's academic achievement (the success of the teaching and learning process) over a single semester. The calculation of the GPA at the end of each semester aims to measure a student's performance and to determine the number of credits they may undertake in the following semester; the GPA is calculated for each semester.

Both the Grade Point Average (GPA) and the Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) are derived from the processing of test results. The CGPA represents a student's level of success at the conclusion of the entire study programme, calculated as the weighted average of all courses undertaken. Meanwhile, the Cumulative Grade Point Average is the GPA calculated by combining all courses completed up to a specific semester.

At higher education level, the GPA is calculated as the average of the standardised grades obtained by a student in that course after being weighted by 'Credit Points'. Standardised grades range from 4 (A, highest) to 0 (E, fail). The number of Credit Points is determined (usually 1 to 4 Semester Credit Units/SCU) based on the weighting of each course. This weighting is determined based on the importance of the course in shaping the graduate's competencies.

In this regard, it is hoped that the results of the evaluation of student learning progress at Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang for the third intake of 2025 can be used as a basis for consideration and input for the development and improvement of lecturers' quality in the delivery of the learning process. Furthermore, the results of this evaluation can be utilised by those in leadership roles within each faculty/study programme to provide guidance to lecturers and to plan for increasingly improved teaching models, so that all parties can reflect on the learning system and process, and ultimately implement improvements.

1. Objectives

The objectives of the evaluation of student learning progress at Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang are as follows:

- a. To determine the effectiveness and efficiency of the teaching and learning process.
- b. To assess the implementation of academic activities at the university/faculty/study programme in accordance with established regulations and policies.
- c. To ensure that the activities of the university/faculty/study programme are conducted in accordance with applicable regulations, so that they run smoothly and are optimally successful.

2. Benefits

- a. To inspire and motivate lecturers in carrying out their duties in the field of education.
- b. Developing and seeking new teaching and learning methods that are more appropriate and effective.
- c. Fostering good and harmonious cooperation between lecturers and students, as well as between lecturers and all other teaching staff, in relation to student learning outcomes.

B. IMPLEMENTATION EVALUATION PROGRESS STUDENT STUDENT LEARNING

The Evaluation of Student Learning Outcomes for 2025 Batch III was conducted during the October 2025 graduation ceremony by retrieving student grade data via the Academic Information System (SIA), specifically from the sub-menu for printing the summary of graduates for 2025 Batch III within each study programme.

D. EVALUATION AND FOLLOW

Based on the results of the analysis of the Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) of students at Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang in 2025, Wave III, in general, student learning outcomes fall into the 'very good' category. The average GPA for undergraduate (S-1) students is 3.70, whilst the average GPA for postgraduate (S-2) students is 3.80. These results indicate that the learning processes implemented in the majority of study programmes have been effective and in line with the set by Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang.

At the Bachelor's (S-1) level, the majority of study programmes have an average GPA above 3.60. The Law study programme recorded the highest average GPA of 3.85, followed by Primary School Teacher Education and Pancasila and Citizenship Education. This reflects the success of learning strategies, academic assessment, and lecturers' mentoring of students. However, several study programmes in the fields of engineering and applied sciences showed a relatively lower average GPA compared to education programmes, although they still fall within the 'good' category. This situation requires special attention to ensure the equalisation of academic quality across study programmes.

At the Master's (S-2) level, students' GPA achievements are very high, with several study programmes approaching or achieving the maximum score, such as Mathematics Education (S-2) with an average GPA of 4.00. This achievement demonstrates the students' academic maturity as well as the effectiveness of research-based learning and scientific development at the postgraduate level.

When compared with the progress in learning outcomes in Batches I and II of 2025, the GPA achievements in Wave III are relatively stable with very minor fluctuations. This stability indicates the consistent quality of the learning process and the academic evaluation system that has been operating continuously.

The Quality Assurance Agency (LPM) recommends follow-up measures to ensure more effective monitoring of student learning outcomes. Therefore, the LPM advises study programmes to implement an Early Warning System (EWS). The EWS is an early warning system for students regarding their learning achievements. This system is implemented in two stages:

1. Initial Evaluation

The first evaluation is conducted at the end of the fourth semester for students who have completed four consecutive semesters. At this stage, students are expected to have accumulated a minimum of 60 credits with a minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) of 2.75.

If students do not meet these requirements, the study programme will:

- a. Issue a warning letter to students with a GPA below 2.75 at the end of the fourth semester.

- b. Compile a list of students experiencing academic difficulties to serve as a basis for guidance by the Academic Advisor.

2. Final Evaluation

The final evaluation is conducted near the end of the maximum study period, which is 7 years. At that time, students must submit:

- a. Between 150 and 154 credits (in accordance with the curriculum of the respective degree programme).
- b. Minimum Grade Point Average of 2.75.
- c. A maximum of one course with a grade of D.
- d. Must have completed a dissertation.

To ensure students meet these requirements, monitoring and guidance are necessary. The guidance measures taken are:

- a. Conducting an inventory of students experiencing difficulties with their study duration to serve as guidance material for Academic Supervisors (DPA).
- b. Issuing a warning letter to the student concerned at the following times:
 - 1) The end of the scheduled study period.
 - 2) Their study period has reached 5 years.
 - 3) Their study period has reached 6 years.
- c. Providing special support for students who have been studying for 6 years, including:
 - 1) Students are required to draw up a schedule of activities for the extension period;
 - 2) Students report on their academic progress by completing a monitoring form provided by the Academic Administration Sub-Division for consideration by faculty staff.

If, after undergoing the guidance phase, the student is still unable to complete their studies, there are 2 (two) options.

1. Granting an Extension of the Study Period

An extension of the study period may be granted if the student only needs to complete their final year project, provided they sign a stamped statement confirming that if the student fails to be able to complete their studies within the given timeframe, the student in question is still required to draw up a work plan for the duration of the study extension.

2. No Extension of Study Period

The faculty management may decide not to extend the study period for students whose study period has expired if:

- a. The student in question is inactive and difficult to contact.
- b. Academically, the student is unlikely to progress further as they have reached their maximum potential.

If the results of the faculty administration's evaluation of a student indicate that the student's study period cannot be extended, the steps to be taken are:

- 1) A letter of proposal for withdrawal must be drafted and submitted to the Rector, accompanied by the student's academic record.
- 2) Submit the Rector's decision approving the withdrawal or drop-out and forward this decision to the student's parents or guardians, accompanied by a transcript of the courses previously taken.
- 3) The student may request any other certificates deemed necessary.
- 4) Monitoring may be carried out by the Head of the Study Programme and reported to the Vice-Dean for Academic Affairs.

Regarding the duration of study, which will affect the student's academic outcomes, in 2025, the third cohort of higher education institutions implemented controls and follow-up measures by issuing a Rector's Decision from the Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang, regarding the maximum duration of study for undergraduate students (S-1) of 14 (fourteen) semesters or 7 years, referring to the Decision of the Minister of National Education of the Republic of Indonesia No. 232/U/2000 dated 20 December 2000, Article 5, paragraph (1).

In implementing this regulation, the university has issued a first warning regarding the duration of study to students from the 2020 intake, stating that students have entered their 10th (tenth) semester, and are hereby warned that the deadline for the duration of study is the even semester of 2027/2028. If by that deadline the student has not graduated, the student will be declared to have dropped out (DO).

A Second Study Period Warning is issued to students from the 2019 intake, stating that as students have entered their twelfth (12th) semester, they are hereby warned that the final deadline for their study period is the even semester of 2026/2027. If students have not graduated by this deadline, they will be declared to have dropped out (DO).

A Final Study Period Warning is issued to students from the 2018 intake, as they have entered their fourteenth (14th) semester; they are hereby warned that the final deadline for their study period is the even semester of 2025/2026. If the student has not graduated by that deadline, they will be declared to have dropped out (DO).

In this regard, the role of the study programme and academic tutors is crucial in managing students so that they can make the most of the remaining time by taking courses or undertaking a dissertation that has not yet been taken, or by retaking courses or improving grades, through study in the remaining semesters, bridging semesters, remedial courses, or dissertation supervision in accordance with applicable regulations.

It is hoped that the issuance of these Warning Letters will be effective in enabling students to complete their studies before the deadline expires, so that they are not declared to have dropped out (DO). It is also important for students to adopt a structured approach to meeting their various obligations so that their GPA can improve.

E. CONCLUSION

Based on the results of the evaluation of the learning progress of students at Universitas Persatuan Guru Republik Indonesia, Semarang in 2025, Batch III, it can be concluded that:

1. The learning process at the Bachelor's (S-1) and Master's (S-2) levels has generally been running smoothly and effectively, as reflected in the average GPA of 3.70 for the Bachelor's (S-1) level and 3.80 for the Master's (S-2) level.

2. There is consistency in student learning outcomes across graduation cohorts in 2025, indicating the stability of the institution's academic quality.
3. Master's degree programmes demonstrate very high learning outcomes, reflecting the success of research-based learning and the strengthening of students' academic competencies.
4. Although GPA achievements are generally good, there are still differences in achievement between study programmes that require attention in efforts to improve and equalise the quality of learning. Generally, the S-1 level experienced a decrease of 0.27% from the second cohort, and the S-2 level experienced a decrease of 2.31% from the second cohort.

F. RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on the evaluation results and conclusions, the following follow-up actions are recommended:

1. Faculties and study programmes need to maintain and improve the quality of learning that has been running well through the strengthening of learning planning, innovation in teaching methods, and continuous learning evaluation.
2. Study programmes with relatively lower GPA outcomes need to conduct internal evaluations of their learning strategies, assessment systems, and academic support for students.
3. Faculties and study programmes need to undertake the continuous development of lecturers' competencies, particularly in the application of adaptive teaching methods and those oriented towards graduate learning outcomes.
4. The results of this evaluation should be utilised as a basis for formulating academic policies, planning teaching models, and continuously improving the internal quality assurance system.
5. It is recommended that evaluations of student learning progress continue to be carried out periodically as a form of institutional reflection aimed at improving the quality of higher education.
